ADAPTATION

ADAPTATION

By Mr A, Mr C and Mr D Present

"Hello, bonjour, guten tag, konnichiwa and welcome to the future. Here on your left hand side, you will see an exhibit from 2013, almost 300 years ago. As you can see these waxwork models here of three gentlemen that were the forefathers of this science bio-lab. These waxwork models of Mr A, Mr C and Mr D serve as a reminder to all of us of the importance of science. Now please, if you would remove your safety harness and step to the left for our first lesson of the day - adaptation."

Question: What is adaptation?

Answer: A change in a plant or animals body to suit its location,

It could be a predator,

Or it could be a prey,

It evolves over thousands of years in the most efficient way,

For Example: The beaver has got big teeth,

The duck has got webbed feet,

The giraffe's neck has got some height,

And polar bears are always white,

Now time for some reasons: The camel's got long eyelashes to stop eyes getting sandy,

Its hump on its back is fat - that's food storage that is handy,

Porcupines have quills to defend them from attack,

A crocodile looks like a log in water when you see its back,

If they don't adapt, then they won't survive,

They make these changes just to stay alive,

"We are experiencing some minor turbulence. Please, keep your safety harness on and stay in the pod. We are experiencing some minor turbulence. Please, keep your safety harness on and stay in ..."

"Wahoooo! Here I come! Oh, I think I've got a little bit of indigestion. Ah, there we go. Corr! That was a right journey. I had to use all my lasers, all my guns and everything."

"Exit the vehicle. Please, meet your intergalactic tour guide, Bertrum."

"Hiya! You doin' alright? You had a good day?"

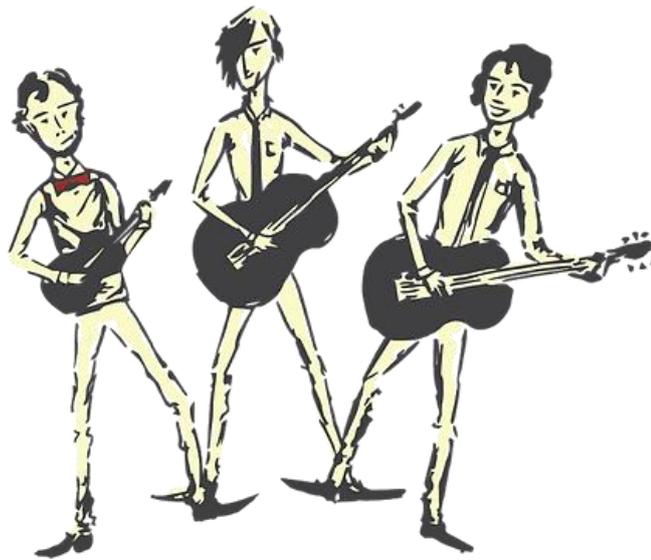

"May I please remind Bertrum to use the front door next time?"

"Yeah, yeah. Alright, alright. Use the front door next time. Step out of the vehicle. Use the front door. Nerrr. Mardy!"

"I can still here you Bertrum."
